

Music

In this term of music we are learning to compose music with chords and how we can make the chords sound more interesting. But first we needed to learn how we can figure out the chords because if you wanted all of the chords major or all the chords minor, you need to know the difference between these two types of chords. After that we started choosing which chords we wanted in our piece of music, this was the fun bit, and practiced them. Once we were fluent with them, we then got started on the melody, which is something like a background music. It was hard trying to make it sound good together even if the chords and melody matched up and was the part where we made the most changes in our piece of music because if you put all the chords and melodies together it should still sound good. Then we have to practice it until we are fluent with it and then we can improve our work by adding tempo and dynamics. Only a few people had time to do the last one because it was a bit hard practicing it but I still had a lot of fun. My favorite part was when we were making the melody because I get to experiment with different notes and used the ones that sound the best. I also enjoyed listening to other people's music and learnt what I could have done to improve.
