

Roald Dahl Poem

Don't judge her by her looks,

She reads a lot of books.

She gives back all she took,

Especially Mrs Phelps library books.

She has a dangerous dad,

Who is indeed very bad.

Her mother chooses beautiful looks,

Instead of educational books!

Her brother will follow the beat,

For the family business cheat!

How can it be,

That she reads newspapers at the three?!

Her teacher Miss Honey,

Is outstandingly lovely.

Her headmistress Miss Trunchbull,

Can lift anything and pull!

Who is she?

Who can she be?

Of course,

It's Matilda!
