First I saw, the millions of iron suits around me. The factory's iron door entrance was just located under my bed. The reason that I was looking for this was to make people safe, because the suit has power to keep people's energetic health.

Today, many people die from the bad air, the pollution, or different diseases. The suits cleaned the bad air through the filters.

The medicine was in the suits. They have sensors to move the strong arms. In addition, the strong arms are controlled by the sensors. When one moves the arms, the suit will read the sensors, and the arms will move.

The strength from the arms are strong. The people will get healthy from the artificial heart which gives people energy, and the suit is always charging from the artificial heart, which is at the center of the suit.

My grandfather invented this suit, and tried to show it to the government, but he failed. He left a letter to his son before he died. There was a map, and clues to find the location of secret factory. He made the puzzle to avoid the dangerous people. Only I know the answers of the clues! When I found the factory under my bed, I was surprised, at a while I was glad about it.

The people who wanted to find the suits are still following me, I locked my bedroom door, and I opened the door to the secret factory.

Now, I am watching the millions of the iron suits around me and I found the reason that he failed to show these to the government, the reason was the electricity, because the suits will require the lots of electric powers, but I already expect that I'll need the lots of energy.

I connected to the power of the city, I connected it to the system, and I blew off the dust that on the control system. I saw the name of this factory, 'LIVE'. I thought my grandfather created this special name, because these suits give life. It was 4:54 pm. I needed to connect the electricity. The city will turn off the power at 5 pm. So I connected to the system, and the system worked very quickly.

There were strange sounds, and I saw the many lights from all the suits. I controlled suits to go to the government, and I wear a suit too. When I pressed the launch button, I saw the suits flying. I found the enemies were near my house. They looked at our suits, and they were surprised. Everyone was surprised and took pictures, but I explained about the suits. Some of them clapping, some of them even tried on the suits.

Finally, the government allowed to me to make these suits, and I was really glad about it. My grandfather will be glad from the sky, too.
