

Escape from the Well

It was a freezing cold Christmas night, snow fell from the sky and covered the village. Lucy and Kate were friends. They both lived in the apartments that were near the old creepy well. It was the night that two girls had a sleepover together. They were excited, because the weather was perfect for playing. They were so happy. They screamed with a joy.

They came out of Kate's home secretly and ran straight to the well jumping like frogs. Even though they knew there was no cover, they sat on edge of the well.

The girls were just laughing, pointing at each other. Then looked down into the well and wondered what would happen if they fell into it. While Kate was looking down the well, Lucy tickled her. They kept tickling each other. Accidentally, Lucy fell. The scream echoed quite a long time. BUMP!

Kate was surprised! She did not know what to do and just shouted into the well, but there were no reply. Kate was frightened. She had to get Lucy's parents to save her. Lucy's right foot was stuck at the well's bottom. Kate heard someone calling her. She turned back and searched. She looked into the well to check if Lucy had called her. It was Lucy calling her with a nervous voice. Kate asked her if she could move. She answered that she could move in a loud voice, filled with fear.

Lucy curled up like a squirrel and put both hands in her pockets. She found something inside one pocket. She could not remember why she had those materials in her pocket. She took out everything. There were a sharp pocket knife, packaged meter of string and a short strong wooden stick. Lucy tied the string to the wooden stick. She tied it very tight so that it could not untie. She threw it to Kate. Kate caught it and asked if she was ready. After Lucy answered, Kate pulled the stick with all her energy. Her hands were bleeding from the rough string, but Kate did not let it go. She knew Lucy would die. Lucy tried to climb up the well. It was fortunate that there were some rocks stuck in the wall. These rocks made her climb easier. The girls pulled and climbed for about five minutes.

Lucy got out of the well! They felt successful, but were scared. They knew Lucy's mom would be mad, because Lucy's clothes were very dirty. They ran quickly to Kate's home. They got cleaned up and washed her clothes.

Later that night, they forgot what had happened. They had a great time watching movies and playing truth or dare with their friends.
