What our people say about our professional development opportunities

“I'm pleased to say it has been both challenging and enlightening. Just this week, the concept of thinking of international schooling through a lens of globalisation has really made my brain work hard.”

Tom Collins, Head of STEAM,
British International School of Chicago, Lincoln Park

“In two weeks I have already learnt so much about an international education sector that I thought I knew well. The huge explosion of international education has caused many changes in the make-up of the sector and the profile of the typical international school. I'm sure that this has already helped in the development of my future career and in my effectiveness as an international school leader.”

Simon Porter, Director of Learning,
Compass International School Doha, Madinat Khalifa

“Nord Anglia's Middle Leadership Programme really made me consciously focus – for the first time in my career – on my leadership style. It made me aware of the merits of being more deliberate in the approach I take to my leadership, and made me realise the value in being able to adapt my style to suit the needs of a given situation.”

Nakisa Jobling, Regional Legal Counsel,
Europe and North America
