Matthew’s Story...

The class laughs as more markers roll off the edge of the table. The fourth grade is busy laying out what they think the hallway should look like but their drafting supplies keep rolling away! He focuses in as he selects each element the new hallway will need to make sure students get everything they asked for: space to read, supplies for building, and plenty of room for the teachers to layout new projects. It’s not an easy task making sure everyone is happy but he’s excited for the challenge.

Matthew L. is a fourth grader at The Village School who loves exploring new topics to study. His favorite is language arts and he hopes to one day graduate from Harvard with a degree in Science and Literature.

This is his fourth year at The Village School and what he likes most is the projects and teachers. His favorite so far was redesigning the third grade hallway to incorporate new student needs. Matthew also participates in after-school swim team and hopes to join the Village Swim Team when he is eligible. In his free time he likes drawing and hanging out with his friends from all over the world.

Our Village Story...

The Village School was founded in 1966. What started as a small, private nursery school is now a vibrant campus of approximately 1,700 students, from early childhood through high school. Our school initially served 100 students, aged three through five. In 1973, Betty Moore acquired the school and set forth the school’s original mission to “foster excellence through knowledge, character, and integrity,” a guiding legacy that continues to shape the school’s culture of champions.

Today, The Village School inhabits over 28 acres in a residential area of West Houston. The campus consists of more than 337,000 square feet of facilities. In addition, the school recently completed an extensive campus expansion with a new state-of-the-art gymnasium and competitive swim center. Our community of students from over 60 nations shares a commitment to uncommonly high levels of achievement. Our dedicated and caring faculty and staff continue to prepare students for future success at the most prestigious colleges and universities throughout the world. We are fully accredited by the Texas Association of Accredited Private Schools (TAAPS) and the International Baccalaureate Organization (IBO). Village High School is an official International Baccalaureate World School offering the IB Diploma Programme.
